

David J. Spigelmyer
President
Marcellus Shale Coalition

David J. Spigelmyer is President of the Pittsburgh, PA based Marcellus Shale Coalition (MSC), the region's largest shale development trade association. On behalf of the MSC's approximately 300 member companies, he works closely with elected leaders, regulators and the civic community to advance responsible shale development and the overall enhancement of the region's economy and environment.

Mr. Spigelmyer was instrumental in the MSC's 2008 founding, and has served as the organization's chairman, vice-chairman and as lead of its legislative committee. Most recently, Mr. Spigelmyer served as Vice President of Chesapeake Energy Corporation's Appalachia division, where he was responsible for government relations, regulatory policy, stakeholder engagement and communications efforts. Prior to Chesapeake, he served in similar roles at EQT Corporation and Dominion Resources and held other energy industry-related positions in New York State as well as in Washington, DC.

Dave currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Moraine Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America, is a former President of the Board of Directors for the West Virginia Oil and Natural Gas Association, serves on the Board of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Business and Industry, serves on the Board of Magee-Womens Research Institute and Foundation, is the Board Secretary for Energize West Virginia, serves on the Board of Directors of the Keystone Elk Country Alliance, serves on the Board of the Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, the Early Learning Investment Commission and he has served as the Gas Executive Committee Chairman for the Energy Association of Pennsylvania. Dave is a 1982 graduate of Penn State University with a B.S. Degree in Public Service. Dave is a Pennsylvania native and resides with his wife Francie and two children in Cranberry Township, Pennsylvania.